natural wisdom

By Ben

as a 5th generation rancher I see in Holchek a top scientist in range management who has the level of wisdom where it reaches the same conclusions of my ancestors who didn't know how to read but knew how to preserve their land. The old men learned to respect nature the hard way, Darwin took care of those who didn't. In a fragile environment good stewardship of the land is the best long term economic strategy. But it also reflects the best of modern science respect for God's complex creation based in profound knowledge.

useful.

By M. E. Conner

I purchased this book for a class. I've used it sparingly but I have found it useful. Breaks it down very basic, to understand which is nice. Service was prompt and quick. Came in great shape within less than a week.
